

Pearson Hall Meeting Minutes

November 16, 2008

The sign-in sheet was a bit of a disappointment, so instead I shall focus here on a subject of tremendous importance. Kye Barker is a worthless piece of shit. Fuck him so much. He is an abomination to humanity, a reminder of mankind's degradation, a complete fuckhead who should go fuck himself. Fuck him. He is an asshole and a tyrant who should punch himself in the balls. He sucks so much that he can't even fuck himself properly but tries to do it anyway because he's a worthless fucker.

Fuck Kye Barker.

GK: Mark I

- We'll be having Thanksgiving dinner with Sellards on Sunday, November 23.
- Don't be a lazy jackass, help out. Most of the day will involve cooking and preparing the dining room for the awesomeness.
- Contrary to Pearson tradition, don't bring guests. On this holiday of giving, we must hoard the food for ourselves. GK's cell phone went off because he can't get his shit together.
- Don't dress like a lazy jackass either. Slacks and a nice button-up shirt are encouraged, although Christmas sweaters are encouraged even more so.
- There will be no snacks cook that Sunday, which means that no bizarre amalgamations of leftover food will be heated and then set out for people to not eat.
- Make K-Team less bitchy by helping to clean up after the meal.
- Chris Sommer is not allowed to eat Thanksgiving. Chubs needs to make some sacrifices.

The Iron Hand of Justin

- If you are doing any sort of consistent community service over the course of the month, let him know so that he can log it accordingly.
- Voting counts as community service, so if you partook in an effortless act of privilege, let him know. That way he can log a civic right as though it's an incredible act of generosity.
- The Organization of the Month for the Skol Halls is the Salvation Army. There will be a box placed somewhere in Pearson in which you can donate clothes, bedding, towels and Peruvians.

GK: Mark II

- Are you bitchy about email clutter? Do you get pissy every time you have more than five messages in your inbox? Try these helpful tips to decrease your incessant whining:
 - 1.) Get gmail.
 - 2.) Don't send out "clutter" emails. People usually skip over important emails if they are surrounded by extra emails.
 - 3.) Check your email often so that you stay on top of important info, as well as keep tabs on the number of new messages that you receive.
- GK doesn't want anyone to send out messages on other people's email accounts. It seems that "GK Secrets" will have to exist only in iTunes shared libraries (and perhaps somewhere on these minutes).

I kicked Paul's ass in football and now he's all bitchy

- The shirts have been successfully ordered. Now we wait...
- He has given up on floor hockey. Apparently Pearson is 0-3 due to three consecutive forfeits.
- The forfeit fees come out of the social budget that doesn't seem to be getting much use this semester...but I'll talk about that later.
- If you sign up to play a sport, you should follow the path of logic that a sign up sheet implies and actually play it.

- The next dodgeball game is next Sunday at 3 PM. It should only take at most an hour, so you won't miss out on the Thanksgiving dinner where you can put back on all the weight you worked off.
- He will post a sheet of the different sports dates in the stairwell when he feels like it.
- The shirts will cost about $10 when they get here.

Social Chairs C.McG and Jeff

crickets chirping

The Harryest Swartz anyone's ever seen

- Nobody listens to him, and he has to repeat the same stuff at every meeting. That makes him a very sad panda.
- Once again, if cooks order produce for a meal, they need to use it, or else he'll choke a bitch.
- Cooks should check the menus before they turn them in.
- If you find the box of newly delivered produce in the kitchen, take it upon yourself to put it in the refrigerator.
- Cooks should check at least 48 hours before a meal to see if they have the necessary things to make their upcoming meal. If you lack something undeniably crucial to the lunch or dinner experience, you must meet with him and confront him in person.

The Presiding Proctor of Pearson Hall, please welcome Toolbag McDoucheMuffin

- Diz hall be NASTY. People aren't cleaning up after themselves and are leaving messes. Das booshit.
- If things don't improve by Wednesday, we'll lose food privileges. This means that we won't be allowed to take food out of the dining room. All the ROTC residents will be given sniper shifts outside every exit from the kitchen to ensure that no food leaves the premises.
- There should be no cups and dishes in people's rooms. Also, when you bring them down to the dishroom, rinse them out thoroughly.
- The card swipes are now on both the front and back doors and are now working. Deal with it. Get in the habit of taking your card with you whenever you leave the hall, just like Shaun's shitty reminders that are fucking everywhere tell you to do.
- As it starts to get colder and the Peruvians become lethargic, it's a good idea to not park in the spaces directly in front of Sellards. Ice causes cars to slide down the hill, creating humorous viewing for others.
- The hall will close for Thanksgiving Break at 10 PM on Tuesday, November 25. LEAVE.
- There is no official checkout for Thanksgiving Break like Winter Break or the end of the year. Just clean up your room and get the fuck out.
- We've raised about $400 so far for No Shave November. Don't shave until you get back from break so that he can take pictures of our grotesqueness at the end of the month.

The following will all be said AGAIN in the next meeting before Winter Break.

- There will be no shifts on Stop Day, causing mass anarchy to erupt where only the strong survive.
- There will be temp shifts during finals week. Don't worry if you're lazy, temp credits carry over into next semester.
- We'll all have to leave the hall for Winter Break, and Gibson don't give a fuck where you go.
- Everyone will have a closing shift to do before they leave for Winter Break.

This will all be said again in the next meeting, but Gibson said it ANYWAY.

-Now for the Gibson's monthly bitch-tacular report on shifts:

- Waiters need to turn the chairs upside-down and mop the floor thoroughly.
- Dishes needs to clean the counter and the dishroom floor.
- Morning Kitchen now needs to empty the toaster crumb tray, much to Steele's irritation.

- H&H is in charge of mopping the shower hallway. Score one for Team Shower.
- Shifts have been okay this semester, but we can do better. Gibson has been lenient so far, BUT NO MORE.
- People need to rinse out and break down empty plastic bottles so Paul stops whining.
- The K-Team that is listed as being on Nov. 30 is actually on Nov. 23 because Gibson fucked up. Now you fucked up. Now you fucked up. Now you fucked up. You have fucked up now. Now you fucked up. Now you fucked up. ...Ha, that's good shit.
- The Nov. 23 K-Team will be after the Thanksgiving dinner with Sellards, but should be fairly easy if everyone helps out after the meal.
- K-Team is a legitimate shift that you must complete just like any other shift.

WHY WON'T HE JUST SHUT THE FUCK UP?

- Lately, K-Team has been, as Gibson eloquently put it, "wonky." Whatever the fuck that means.
- From here on out, K-Team will be at 8:00 PM on Sunday nights. The K-Team leader must talk to Gibson to change the time and must then tell the other K-Team members.
- If you won't be there on a night when you are assigned to be on K-Team, you must notify him by Friday of the previous week at the very latest.

Why the 2nd Floor sucks:

- Shit needs to be moved out of the hallway. When was it ever acceptable to just leave crap in public walkways? Do you think highways and roads work like that? Shitheads.
- Shit shouldn't be kept on the table in the bathroom. That's what medicine cabinets are for. You know, those things right above where you keep your clothes, where you're actually supposed to store your crap. By this point in your life, it should be a fairly simple concept to not leave your shit in everyone else's way. Idiots.
- If all the crap is not out by Thursday, Wesley gets to throw it out.

Thus concludes this symposium on why the 2nd Floor sucks.

GK: Mark III

- OTMs for the month of November are due by December 5.
- Harrison Swartz received an OTM for "Executive Board Member of the Month."
- Garrett Kelly received an OTM for making a good meal. Whoop-de-fucking-doo.

Shaun decided to come and visit

- He congratulated Chris P. for a good job during Sneak Peek. Whatever.
- Gibson already said most of what he wanted to talk about. The disappointment in the air was strong.
- He will post checkout sheets on our doors before Thanksgiving Break. Remember to sign out on the sheet after you unplug your fax machine.
- We can come back on Sunday, November 30.

The people have decided that the Proctor and Food Board Manager are not members of the executive board, but can still run for executive board positions with the exceptions of president, vice president, social chair and sports chair.

THINGS TO PONDER (Pleasing Grant's mom since 2007)

How pissed off will this make Grant? Enough to attack me? Can I take him?

Fuck Dave. He knows why.

Why is Nerdles usually the only one to write on the 3rd Floor minutes? Does it have something to do with his poor social skills and brash stupidity? Why does Oscar always scribble on and deface the 2nd Floor minutes? Immaturity and a desperate need for attention?

Even if I can't see his computer screen from across the hall, I can usually tell what Brownie is doing on his computer just by looking at his posture. If he's leaning back like he doesn't care, he's doing homework, but if he's leaning forward like he's hiding a boner it usually means he's playing Warcraft or something.

How many nations could GVG and Alicia power with the heat generated from their computers while playing WOW?

Scott Peters' faux-hawk is cute. The more of a pansy that Michelle makes him into, the more easily I can kick his ass.